I am a 27 year old digital graphic designer and artist, currently based in Napier. I have a deep passion for all kinds of design, and love applying my skills to a range of discliplines. These include designing signage, posters, labels, packaging, brochures and wayfinding. I also have a range of skills in multimedia design such as websites, animation, video editing and projection mapping. My biggest projects to date have involved producing media all of these areas to form a cohesive outcome. In addition, I constantly work on my own projects - including having released two musical albums, and I am currently developing my own product: a neon-style lightbox, designed as an aesthetic feature for the home or office.

I have 7 years experience as both a freelance designer and working in an in-house design studio as part of EIT's ideaschool, and am very interested in extending my skillset and applying my skills to new areas.
